There are approximately 20,000 deaths per day from sepsis worldwide.

Globally, an estimated 18 million cases of sepsis occur each year.

Sepsis causes more deaths per year than prostate cancer + breast cancer + HIV/AIDS combined.

Sepsis is the #1 cause of death in U.S. non-coronary ICUs.

Each hour of delay in initiation of effective antimicrobials can increase mortality rates by 7.6%.

Between 2000 & 2008, the number of U.S. hospital admissions for sepsis more than doubled.

Sepsis was the most expensive reason for U.S. hospitalization in 2009 — totaling nearly $15.4 billion in aggregate hospital costs.

In 2009, U.S. mortality rates for sepsis were eight times higher than mortality rates from other hospital stays.
