Megan Stuff, Assistant Director of Clinical Operations

Megan started her career in medical imaging in 2005. As an X-ray tech, Megan worked at a level one trauma hospital and also a busy outpatient imaging center. She quickly learned that outpatient is where she wanted to be. After mastering her trade in X-ray, Megan cross-trained into CT, then over into MRI. After a handful of years working in MRI and CT, Megan changed paths once again into leadership. Starting as a supervisor, she then became Co-Manager to solo Manager, now Assistant Director of Clinical Operations. Leadership is her passion, so much so that she obtained her Master of Arts degree in Organizational Leadership in 2019. Megan helps facilitate all of the operations at a very large outpatient imaging center in the Phoenix metro area. Always eager to learn something new and take on new challenges, she welcomes change and lives by the personal mission statement of; Elevating culture while prioritizing leadership.
