

Beware of Job Scams! As you conduct your job search, please beware of the possibility that scam artists may post fraudulent job openings or send fraudulent communications regarding potential jobs in an attempt to encourage the job seeker to disclose financial or personal information. You should always conduct research to ensure a posting is legitimate and you should never provide personal or financial information unless you are certain that the request is legitimate.

Here are some tips to help you identify fraudulent communications about potential jobs:

1. The communications you receive are unprofessional – they contain poor grammar and/or typos.
2. Emails or other communications are not sent from a BD or CareFusion address. Please note that legitimate emails end only with a “@carefusion.com” or “@bd.com” extension.
3. You are asked to participate in a job interview online through an instant messaging application. Please note that BD or CareFusion does not conduct job interviews online or through instant messaging services.
4. You are asked to provide financial information such as a credit card number or bank account information. Please note that BD or CareFusion will never ask a job applicant or a new hire to make payments or provide financial information such as credit card or bank account information.
5. The description about the position is vague or unclear, with little to no detail about the job requirements or responsibilities.
6. The offer seems too good to be true.

If you are uncertain whether a job posting is valid or whether a communication about a potential job is legitimate, please contact at asc.americas@bd.com or 858-617-2307 to confirm its authenticity.
